Allconnect Launches Revolutionary New Online Resource for Proactively Managing Expense and Usage of Household Services

ATLANTA, November 22, 2010 – Managing home services is easier thanks to Allconnect's launch of a free, online tool that – for the first time – allows consumers to proactively manage expenses for their cable TV, satellite TV, high speed Internet, home phone, and home security services at one convenient, secure website while also receiving customized recommendations based on their individual needs and usage.

After entering their home address, usage, and monthly charges for basic home services, consumers receive an analysis of service provider choices and money-saving tips specific to their home. The benefits for consumers of the new home services advisor tool include the ability to:

- Build their own bundle of services, allowing for flexibility to meet specific needs.
- Identify preferred TV channels to receive recommendations for service plans that provide precisely what they want.
- Create charts that display comparison of average money spent on home services in their area to show how they compare to their neighbors.
- View checklists identifying cost saving opportunities, such as energy efficient appliances and home improvements.
- Sign up to receive emails when new service providers or new promotions are available in their area.

The technology behind the home services advisor tool is the latest innovation in the company's ongoing commitment to the customer experience and their promise of giving consumers "One less thing to worry about."

"Our proprietary home services advisor functionality is unlike anything in the marketplace. This new generation Allconnect.com clarifies and simplifies how consumers optimize their ongoing usage and expenses," said Mark Miller, Allconnect CEO. "We then take it a step further by actively monitoring the marketplace and making specific recommendations, all at no charge and in a secure online environment.”
